

THE INDUSTRY COMING TOGETHER

This outbreak has impacted us all; the CFA, built on our industry's professional community, is here for all of our members. First and foremost, we hope you and your employees and families are, and continue to be, safe.

As we experience retail and mall closings and social distancing protocols, the consideration of our supply chain remains an important consideration for the future support to our manufacturing partners, families, communities, and our clients.

We must think about what we can do now to be pro-active for the future (whenever that may be). Therefore, we would like to hear from all of you to assist in INFORMING those who have not moved their production to the U.S.

CFA will be LISTING CALIFORNIA MANUFACTURING, including FACILITIES OFFERING cutting, sewing, dyeing, finishing, textile production, domestic product development, etc. Please send us a personal email and give us any information about local producers and suppliers (including contact names).

Where we can, the CFA is prepared to support our manufacturing community at this time - member or non-member.

We also want to hear from our members on any innovative ideas and things that you are doing to get through this – from how you are protecting your employees and work environments to helping others strongly impacted by the Covid-19 epidemic.

You can reach out at EMAIL or PHONE. Let's do what we can to prepare for the future and assist with the present calamity.
