NATURE USA

Nature USA Continues to Lead the Way in Sustainable Fashion

For 25 years, LA-based Nature USA has helped countless brands and retailers to develop, source, and manufacture their products in a socially responsible and environmentally sustainable manner.

Focusing on private label development, Nature USA offers zero-waste manufacturing using recycled fabrics and an organic option free of pesticides, insecticides, or synthetic fertilizers, also using 88% less water than conventional cotton.

Recycled cotton is made from cutting scraps and post-consumer recycled garments, with recycled polyester sourced from post-consumer plastic waste.

Additionally, the textile dyeing process uses 65% less water, 50% less electricity, and creates 50% less emission than any typical USA dye house.

Nature USA launched its circular fashion pilot program in 2019, utilizing returned garments that are then recycled to be reused and repurposed.
